Second Body Found In River

TALLULAH, La. (AP) — A second partial body found in a river 17 miles south of here was not one of three civil rights workers who vanished in Mississippi, it was reported Monday night.

The same negative report was made earlier Monday on another partial body found Sunday a few miles away.

In both cases, only the lower half of the body was discovered in Old River, an offshoot of the Mississippi River. The earlier discovery had centered the search for the missing trio in the Tallulah area.

Scott Makes Agreement Pact

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania announced an agreement Monday on procedure for Tuesday's Republican convention floor fight over amendments the Scranton forces want to make in the Goldwater-dictated GOP platform draft.

Under the formula reported by Scott, chief of Gov. William W. Scranton's campaign for the presidential nomination, an hour each will be allotted for debate on the Scranton proposals on civil rights and on presidential control of nuclear weapons, with each side getting 30 minutes.

Kennedy To Enforce Rights

ATLANTA (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy moved Monday to set up a full-scale legal test of enforcement of the Civil Rights Act two weeks after it became the law of the land.

A Justice Department motion filed in federal court seeks government intervention on behalf of three Negroes who brought the nation's first compliance suit under the new law last week.

Kennedy wants an injunction barring restaurant owner Lester Maddox from operating on a white-only basis—the same relief asked by the Negro complainants.

ICC Approves Rail Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission gave its blessing Monday to another major railroad consolidation in the East, uniting the Norfolk & Western, Nickel Plate and Wabash lines into a 7,450-mile network.

But the ICC said the deal may not go through until the Pennsylvania Railroad agrees to get rid of its controlling interest in the N&W and the Wabash.

And the Pennsylvania has said it won't consider doing that until the ICC rules on its proposal to merge with the New York Central — a ruling that isn't expected for months.

AFL-CIO To Back Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—The AFL-CIO will move soon to galvanize the full economic weight of its 13.5 million members behind the new civil rights law in a campaign of "massive compliance."

The campaign may even include strikes against employers who discriminate against Negroes.

As envisioned by federation President George Meany the campaign would reach into virtually every city and hamlet in the nation, including the South, and constitute one of the most potent pro-civil rights forces.

Ike Likes GOP Platform

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said Monday he believes a good Republican platform has been drafted and he pledged his best efforts for the GOP presidential candidate in the election campaign.

Television Causes Market To Falter

NEW YORK (AP) — Television apparently provided the stock tickers with tough competition Monday and as a result the market had trouble deciding which way to go.

The Dow Jones industrial average closed at 845.55, off 1.95 and at its lowest of the session.

Trading, which started out at a fairly active clip, slowed and fell below 5 million shares for only the second time in eight sessions. It totaled 4.81 million compared with 5.42 million Friday.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover proposed Monday night an eight-point statement of Republican principles "instead of a platform which requires eight or nine columns of newspaper type to explain itself."

Final Appearance

In a message he termed his "final appearance" before Republicans assembled in national convention, the ailing Hoover, 89, said:

"Even the Bill of Rights requires no more than one column."

"The purpose of our platform is to warn the American people of threats to their freedom as individuals and to the nation, and to assure them that Republicans will not fail them in protection of their liberties."

Hoover drafted the statement at his residence in New York City and sent it across the continent to be read to delegates on convention-opening night by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

This is the first such GOP gathering Hoover has not attended and personally addressed since 1928.

"At recent conventions I have given you assurance that this is my last appearance," his message said, "but this is really it."

The former president, who celebrates his 90th birthday Aug. 10, is recovering from a respiratory infection and bleeding of a kidney which almost cost his life four months ago."

Short Statement

In proposing the statement of principles, he warned the delegates that "We shall always be in some sort of crisis." Thus, he said, a short statement, instead of a lengthy platform, would be a "better method to spread to the country the spirit of crusade devotion which dominates this room."

Hoover reminded Republicans that the Bill of Rights resulted from the people's demand for further guarantees of liberties than proclaimed in the drafted Constitution.

"The dangers and crises of today call for a renewed declaration of those principles, and further assurance that Americans will be guarded in their rights," he continued. "Thus, we as Republicans, hold:

"1. That the peace of the world is the first obligation of statesmen and governments, and that we as Americans must maintain our defenses at such strength as will deter Moscow and Peking from an attack on us and the free world.

World Issue

"2. That the major world issue today is whether government shall be the servant or the master of men. As Americans, we hold further that the rights guaranteed by the Constitution are the foundation of individual liberty, that the strict division of powers and the primary responsibilities of state and local governments must be maintained, and that centralization of powers in the national government leads to mastery of our lives.

"3. That the protection of our freedom requires that budgets be balanced, waste in government be eliminated, and taxes be reduced.

Free Enterprise

"4. That our social and economie system must be based upon private enterprise, regulated to prevent monopoly and unfair competition, that government should not undertake business enterprises except in economic crises or wars or when public works are greater than the people themselves can undertake, and that the federal government should divest itself of the thousands of such enterprises it now operates when the emergencies for which they were created are ended.

"5. That the businessman and the farmer are entitled to a fair profit and labor to a fair wage.

Rejects Marxism

"6. That the teachings of Karl Marx, whether they be communist, socialism, economic materialism, or atheism, be rejected absolutely as leading to slavery.

"7. That human values transcend all others.

"8. That our nation can survive only by binding together the forces of free man—men of religious faith, of loyalty to our American traditions, of integrity in public office, who deeply love our country.

"Finally, we hold that the long record of the Republican party gives the best assurance that these principles will prevail in the United States, and with the help of God they will. They serve as a challenge for the future."

U.S. Court Defers Action On Bible Class Until Fall

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — U.S. District Court deferred action Monday until at least next fall on efforts by a Lebanon County school district to make the Bible part of its curriculum.

"It is impossible to make a decision until I see the complete plan," Federal Judge Frederick W. Folmer declared to representatives of the Cornwall-Lebanon suburban joint school board at a hearing.

Judge Folmer ordered the district to complete its plans by the start of the fall school term and submit them to the department of public instruction.

"If the department fails to act, then the court will," Judge Folmer said.

"We also will get a chance to see the program in operation for awhile before taking any action."

Monday's proceedings were another step in the suit by James N. Snavely of North Lebanon township to stop further Bible reading and public prayer in the Ebenezer elementary school which two of his children attend.

The case stems from a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court last year which banned required Bible reading and prayer in public schools.

Gov. Scranton's Backers Lose Fight To Change Seat Rules

First Ballot Win Seen For Barry

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Republicans opened their national convention Monday with one swift, significant fight, a swirl of speeches, and every expectation of routinely nominating Sen. Barry Goldwater for president.

Barring Bomb

Barring the explosion of some sort of super political bomb, Goldwater is going to chalk up a first ballot victory Wednesday.

Minutes before the convention curtain came up Monday, the Arizona senator picked off 42 vital votes in the Ohio delegation. That just about sewed things up.

And just after the first session of the 28th GOP convention began, the first test vote put on display the might of Goldwater forces and their control of the convention.

Supporters of Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania were overwhelmed in an attempt to change the rules with the purpose of winning a delegate seat for a Tennessee Negro.

While Scranton fought futilely on to try to torpedo the Goldwater juggernaut, the senator figured up votes and said he had more than 800 on the first ballot.

On the Associated Press scoreboard, Goldwater's expected first-ballot total leaped to 772. That's 117 more than the 655 needed to give him the nomination.

If there ever was any excitement in this convention, Goldwater's unimpeded surge had extracted most of it.

Farmers Warned Of Hay Poison

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Health Department has cautioned Pennsylvania farmers to be certain any hay they may purchase is free from pesticide residue.

The department took the action after it appeared farmers might have to purchase hay from out-of-state because of a lack of rainfall in the Commonwealth.

"Insist on a guarantee that the hay is clean or get it tested before hauling," said Leland H. Bull, secretary of agriculture, in a statement to farmers.

Delmar K. Myers, director of the department's Bureau of Foods and Chemistry, said Monday the action was taken because hay sprayed with pesticide could contaminate a farmer's milk production.

"The tolerance of pesticide permitted in milk is extremely low," Myers said. "Milk produced by a cow who had been fed with hay treated by pesticides could be contaminated to such a degree that it would not be allowed to be placed on the market."

Myers said there is no evidence that such milk could have a serious effect on human health but the fact remained that the milk would not meet state standards for sale.

He called Bull's advice a "precautionary measure" to protect the farmer of the potential repercussions involved.

Myers said the problem is not a serious one in Pennsylvania at the moment, and may be eliminated for the most part with recurring rainfall in the days ahead.

On Letter, Seating Area Delegates Buck Scranton

By Robert Van Fleet
CHIEF, OTTAWA NEWS SERVICE
SAN FRANCISCO—The two delegates representing Monroe and Pike Counties at the Republican National Convention failed yesterday to follow Gov. Scranton on two of his major issues of the day.

In the final two days of infighting for the presidential nomination between Scranton and Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Arizona conservative, the organization backed the Pennsylvania governor and engaged in two maneuvers.

First, Scranton sent Goldwater a strong letter in which he criticized the Arizona and the strong pressure tactics of some of his organization.

Second, Scranton backers attempted a maneuver on the convention floor, shortly after it opened. An attempt was made to prevent the seating of any delegates who had won his place at the convention by "discriminatory tactics."

"Ill-fated, ill-conceived" Critical of the governor for the "ill-fated and ill-conceived letter," was Edward S. Parsons, Pike County attorney, who is one of the delegates from the State's 15th Congressional District.

Scranton accused Goldwater of having treated the delegates as "little more than a flock of chickens whose necks will be wrung at will."

Scranton also asked, "Will the convention choose the candidate overwhelmingly favored by the Republican voters, or will it choose you?"

Parsons' criticism of the letter were echoed in other state delegations, in some cases causing former Scranton supporters to defect.

The Scranton move to attempt a rules change, on which he was defeated by a clear vote, was reminiscent of the 1952 GOP Convention when the battle was between Dwight D. Eisenhower and the late Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio.

Today, however, the conservatives were in command of the situation, and it was the liberal-moderate wing of the party which went down to defeat.

Two Negro Churches Go Up In Flames

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP)—Fire bombs and arson were the fiery symbols of rural racial tension in Mississippi Monday.

Two more Negro churches went up in flames—both in the vicinity of nearby Kingston.

In addition, police said a "Molotov cocktail" was thrown at a Negro's home here but failed to ignite.

The fires flared in an area that Negro civil rights leaders described as too tense for white volunteers to work in without extreme danger.

Eight arson attacks on Negro churches in various areas have been reported in less than a month.

One of them—at Philadelphia, about 130 miles northeast of here—was involved in the disappearance of three civil rights workers, two of them white volunteers.

The burning of the two churches near Kingston aroused swift sympathy in the section, some residents said.

A campaign was started to raise money to rebuild the simple frame structures.

"These churches were not involved in any civil rights campaign, as far as we know, and these burnings are hard to understand," said one white resident, who asked that he not be named.

Johnson Administration Branded 'Fearbreeding'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Republican convention keynote pictured the Johnson administration Monday night as a fear-breeding reactionary regime and said his party offers the nation a choice between fear and faith.

Without naming him, Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon accused President Johnson of political double-talk and jibed at him on the Bobby Baker case.

But the 42-year-old governor had harsh words also for the Ku Klux Klan, the John Birch Society and the Communist party. And he invited Republicans, Democrats and independents "to set out again on a pilgrimage of faith"—as opposed to fear and hatred.

In discussing civil rights and extremism, the keynote took positions at least partially and indirectly in opposition to some of the ideas of many supporters of Sen. Barry Goldwater, who is expected to wrap up the party's presidential nomination on Wednesday.

On policies, Hatfield said Johnson stands "with one foot on the banks of the Rio Grande and the other on the banks of the Potomac."

Hatfield said that for minorities lacking equality of opportunity in education, jobs and housing, the Republicans "can find the means of assuring to each of them access to these prerequisites of progress." Then he continued:

"We have faith in our capacity to defend human rights against the forces of bigotry and hate within our own country. With the authors of the Declaration of Independence, we know that the rights of men are endowed by our creator; they are not bestowed by men. The hate is not the author of freedom. The state has a duty, however, to support and defend the civil rights, the political rights, the rights of opportunity that some men, in defiance of the Creator, would destroy."

Reds Get Pension Plan To Up Living Standard

MOSCOW (AP)—The people at the bottom of the Soviet economic ladder, collective farmers and public service employees, were promised a better deal Monday by Premier Khrushchev.

Raising Soviet living standards is the most important ideological consideration now, Khrushchev declared at the opening summer session of the Supreme Soviet, the national Parliament.

The premier announced a decision to provide pensions for the first time to about 6.5 million collective farmers and called it a measure of "great historic importance."

Effective Jan. 1, farm men reaching 65 and farm women reaching 60 will become eligible for monthly pensions ranging from 12 rubles to 102 rubles. The ruble is worth $1.11 at the official rate.

Young doctors now earning 72 rubles a month in city hospitals will get 90 rubles. The pay of a local government official will rise from 35 rubles to 50 rubles a month. Pay raises for the 18 million public service employees average about 21 per cent.

Khrushchev spoke for 3½ hours in the great Kremlin palace. Passage of the plan is expected to be automatic. The session will last only a few days.

The plan includes an increase by the end of 1965 of the minimum pay for all salaried employees from 10 rubles to 45 rubles a month.

Original Plans He noted that the pay and pension benefits had been scheduled for 1962 but said the international situation then forced spending on defense instead. The Soviet Union is still alert and any attacker would receive "a destructive retaliatory blow," he said.

Reading through glasses while spotlights glinted off the medals on his light blue suit, Khrushchev began by reiterating claims that the Soviet Union will pass the United States industrially.

Real incomes have increased 61 per cent in the last decade, Khrushchev said. But consumer goods are inadequate and often of the wrong style and design, he said, reiterating press criticisms of poor stocks in the stores.

Tentative estimates of expenditures on the pensions and other benefits on collective farmers are 1.4 billion rubles a year, Khrushchev said.

This averages out at 17.55 rubles a month. The minimum pension for salaried urban workers is set at 30 rubles monthly, a point Khrushchev did not mention.

But he did make it clear that collective pensions will depend upon how hard a person works.

Good Morning!

Public Opinion is merely what people think other people are thinking.

State News Roundup

Morse Critical Of Mine Projects

HARRISBURG (AP) — Democratic State Chairman Otis B. Morse accused the Scranton administration yesterday of "shabby mismanagement" of vital strip mining and back-filling projects in Pennsylvania.

"The indifference of Gov. Scranton to the questionable administration of his department of mines is disturbing to many skilled technicians and other professionals in the field," declared in a statement.

Morse said the "shocking political behavior of Gov. Scranton's secretary of mines, H. Beecher Chambers, is an insult to every taxpayer in Pennsylvania."

"For example, removing a nationally recognized mine expert such as Daniel H. Connelly from key duties and replacing him with two political appointees who lack professional qualifications is a typical Chambers action," the chairman said.

Scranton Expects New York Votes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania told New York delegates Monday that the election of Sen. Barry Goldwater as President could cause "tremendous difficulties in the world and in America."

Scranton paid a surprise visit to a breakfast meeting of delegates from the metropolitan New York City area.

Most of the New York delegates are still technically pledged to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York but are expected to go to Scranton when released.

Hanover Horse At Liberty Bell

HANOVER, Pa. (AP) — Creation of Hanover Colt Stake No. 1 for foals of 1963 to race in harness competition as two and three-year-olds in 1965 and 1966 was announced Monday by Hanover Shoe Farms.

Lawrence B. Sheppard, president of the breeding farms, said the new stake would be run at Liberty Bell Park, Philadelphia, and would complement the nationally famous Hanover Filly Stake.

Water Board Plans Inspection

HARRISBURG (AP) — The state Sanitary Water Board announced plans Friday for a 400-mile inspection tour next week of streams, sewage treatment plants and anthracite strip mining areas in southeastern Pennsylvania.

The round-trip inspection from Harrisburg to Philadelphia and back will be made by bus, starting Wednesday and covering nine counties.

"The population growth and industrial expansion in the areas to be visited make water pollution control of prime importance to help assure adequate supplies of good quality water," said Dr. Charles L. Walbar, state health secretary and chairman of the water board.

Steps will be made Wednesday to inspect Litz Spring Creek, sewage treatment plants at Lancaster, Coatesville and West Chester; paper company mills, a poultry processing plant, and a pharmaceutical plant in Lancaster and Chester counties.

Kaspar Charged With Car Thefts

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — David Kaspar, 30, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., accused in the theft of about 40 cars from the Philadelphia area since Jan. 1, was brought here to face charges.

Detectives said Kaspar and others took the cars to the Harrisburg area, gave them fraudulent New Jersey titles and sold them.

Kaspar is free on $30,000 bail set when he was arrested June 9. Since April 4, four other persons have been arrested in the case. Detectives said they were listed as Moe Rubin, 52, Philadelphia; Allen Kayfield, 46, Pleasantville, N.J.; James Vernechio, 30, Cherry Hill, N.J.; and Joseph Bruno, 38, Wyoming, Pa.

Injuries Fatal To Mountaintop Man

DANVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Raymond Kretzer, 35, Ashley, Pa., died Monday in Geisinger Medical Center of head injuries suffered Friday in the explosion of a pressure vessel at the nearby Mountaintop plant of Foster-Wheeler Corp.

Valley Forge Is BSA Jamboree Site

By LEE LINDER
VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP)—By rail, by plane, by bus, by ship—the Boy Scouts are coming.

Bringing 52,000 boys and their leaders from every one of the 50 states (plus 800 from 44 foreign countries) is a giant task that entails intricate planning and dawn-to-dusk scheduling to avoid traffic jams and after-dark arrivals.

But the Boy Scouts of America is doing it for the sixth national jamboree that opens officially on Friday in historic Valley Forge State Park.

Playful Shouts
However, the green fields where George Washington's colonial troops spent the winter of 1777-78 will be bustling with humanity and echoing with the playful shouts of thousands of high-spirited youngsters long before that.

By Tuesday night nearly 5,000, most of them scout leaders, will be housed in tents on the 1,900-acre encampment site.

The entire jamboree troop will be bedded down in 30,000 tents of all shapes, sizes and colors Thursday night awaiting the start of what is billed as "the free world's largest demonstration of outdoor campcraft, cooking and fellowship."

The greatest number arrived in a 48-hour period—24,043 on Wednesday and 23,593 Thursday.

Kenneth A. Wells, handling the jamboree's transportation, estimates the total travel bill at $4 million. The scouts are bringing baggage weighing over 2,000 tons.

Wells said nearly 60 per cent of the scouts are traveling by bus, 25 per cent by train and 15 per cent in planes. Many of the foreign scouts came to the U.S. via ship. Autos are used by very few.

In 1959, the first time the jamboree was at Valley Forge, 70 per cent came by train. In 1957 this fell to 57 per cent.

The first scouts to arrive, other than the organizing officials, will be 560 from Cleveland, Ohio, rolling in by bus Tuesday.

All told, 1,271 boys and leaders will move in Tuesday.

The largest contingent, 844 from St. Louis and Minneapolis, comes in by special train Thursday. With them are six scouts from Australia.

The smallest group, six boys and a leader, are driving in by auto from Burlington, Iowa.

Scouts from the Portland, Ore., area, are making the longest trip in time consumed. They started out July 5 and will have made sightseeing stopovers at Salt Lake City, Denver, Chicago, Detroit, Washington, New York and Philadelphia before setting up tent housekeeping on Wednesday.

The Portland group will be the first to leave the encampment, jamboree officials said, taking off in special buses for the train station in nearby Philadelphia at one minute after midnight on July 24. Officially, the jamboree ends July 23.

GOP Voters Favor Moderate Wing

By Louis Harris
National Pollster
LOS ANGELES — The mood of rank-and-file Republicans across the nation as measured a few days before the balloting for President at the GOP convention in San Francisco is mixed.

They believe Barry Goldwater will be nominated for President and that he will lose to Lyndon Johnson in the fall.

Although they anticipate a Goldwater victory at the convention, the desire of a majority is that the "moderate" wing should control the GOP.

In a survey of a cross-section of Republicans completed as the convention approached its decision, party members by better than 2 to 1 expressed the belief that Goldwater would be nominated.

EAST STROUDSBURG — Professor Esther Larson, head of the department of English at East Stroudsburg State College, has been named regional judge of the National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Awards for 1964.

Judging committees will evaluate writing skills and literary awareness of nearly 7,000 high school participants. The top participants will be recommended as scholarship possibilities to most U.S. colleges and universities.

task will be to restore a sense of confidence in his own party that he can win in the fall and to cement party ranks among moderately-inclined Republicans in the East and Far West.

In 1860 only four states in the union were without newspapers. They were Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and North Dakota.

Of course, just as polls taken in July can change drastically by November, so the rank-and-file of GOP voters can be wrong in their present assessment.

When asked to make a choice between the "moderate" and "conservative" wings of their party, a clear majority of Republicans prefer that moderates control the GOP.

The division on who should control mirrors rather well the lines of disagreement at the GOP convention.

Republicans on the East and West Coasts clearly favor moderate control of the party. Those in the South and Midwest would prefer to see conservatives leading the GOP.

Commissioners Approve Lincoln Ave. Project

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners yesterday approved the $1,575,635 Lincoln Ave. urban renewal project.

The resolution approving the 55-acre tract of land for industrial and commercial use came after King Beers, executive director of the Monroe County Redevelopment Authority, submitted formal resolutions for the board to sign.

Beers said that copies of the approval, along with partially executed disposition documents, will be submitted to the federal government for its approval of the project.

He added that the disposition documents are similar to letters of intent from commercial interests interested in moving into the area.

Includes "The Flats"

The Lincoln Ave. project includes the land behind the Redmond Finishing Co. on Brown St., sometimes referred to as "the flats."

Commissioners Stuart Pipher brought a motion to approve the resolution, and it was followed by a second from John Price, Chairman Stanley Rader, recently returned from a convention in Canada, was also present.

Beers said that much of the land in the area has already been looked into by various firms, and that the partially executed disposition documents have been drawn up.

He listed among firms interested in the area: Pat and Red Tire Store, Cramer Lumber Co., Redmond Finishing expansion, two car dealers, Lehigh Valley Supply Co., Pocono Mountain Industries, Inc., and representatives from a shopping center.

On Friday the East Stroudsburg council called a special session to approve the project. The county approval was then needed.

Monroe Population Averages 272,000 Per Month In Summer

By Jeff Cox
Daily Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Could it be true that the summer population of Monroe County is more than twice the population of Allentown?

It seems that way.

By some tortuous mathematics — probably influenced by many spurious factors — an educated guess at the summer population of Monroe County is 272,000 people.

That many people can do a lot of spending.

The basic permanent population of Monroe is 42,000, based on this year's census.

John Callahan of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau says that his office has estimated the number of short-term summer vacationers in the region at 600,000 spread over the three months from mid-June to mid-September.

200,000 Per Month

Dividing this by three, we get 200,000 per month — and we're already up to 242,000 for Monroe.

Then there are summer residents — those who come here to live in a cottage or home only in the summer. How can the number of those people be figured?

The Pocono Gas Co. of Cresco was called and asked what the increase in cylinder-gas use was from January to June.

P. J. Shumaker, owner of the company, said that in January, the firm sold 2,500 cylinders of gas; in June they sold 6,000.

He also estimated the number of gas users in the county at about 50 per cent of the population.

He also said that he serves the whole county, which means that his increase is not limited solely to Barrett Twp., but probably reflects a general increase in summer gas buyers across the county.

An equation can then be set up: 2,500 year-round residents is to 6,000 permanent summer residents as 21,000 (the total gas users in the county) is to X, where X is the total summer gas users.

50,400 Summertime Users

By doing the arithmetic, we come up with a figure of 50,400 summertime gas users.

We must subtract the permanent year-round residents (21,000) from the 50,400 total, and we come up with 29,400 summer residents, or about 30,000.

Probably most summer-only residents use bottled gas.

Adding the 30,000 summer residents to our total of 242,000 — we reach the magic figure of 272,000 people who enjoy Monroe County during the summertime.

That figure's enough to swell the head of any market research agent.

Expect Federal Okay

Beers said at a recent public hearing on the project that federal approval is expected in the fall, and that acquisition of land would then start.

In other business, Gordon Stettler, Eugene Swartz, and James Mosier of the Smithfield Twp. board of supervisors, met with the board about a proposed road from Rt. 209 to the Hamlen Airport.

The supervisors told the board that Hal Hamlen, owner of the airport, had offered the right-of-way to the airport if the township would build the road.

It was estimated that the road would be approximately 1,000 feet in length.

It would begin approximately across Rt. 209 from the Paramount Motel.

Plan Meeting

Hamlen was not present at the meeting, and the commissioners decided to hold a meeting with the supervisors and Hamlen on July 20 at 2 p.m. at the airport.

Charles Jones of the Children's Aid Society gave his monthly report. He said that at the beginning of June, there were 16 family applications, four under study, and six inquiries and applications.

During the month, two were not accepted, four were completed, three were accepted, two were under study, and nine were pending study.

At the end of the month, there were 192 children from 55 families being served.

Twenty-nine active foster homes were utilized, and 48 boarding foster homes. There was one free foster home. Two children were in private adoption homes, and four were in institutions.

83 Children Under Care

Eighty-three children from 15 families were under protective care, and 161 children from 46 families were under the family counseling and protective care program.

The board announced its approval of Mrs. Margaret Boscard as a five-day-a-month surplus food worker with J. Ray Saunders, administrator of the free-food program.

2nd Ballot Voting For Barry Urged

PHILADELPHIA — County chairman of the Goldwater for President Committee in Eastern Pennsylvania were instructed to send telegrams to their respective delegates at the GOP national convention urging them to vote for Goldwater on the second ballot.

John Detrick, acting chairman of the Monroe County Goldwater for President Committee, reported this was the outcome of a Goldwater for President meeting in Philadelphia yesterday.

Detrick said he will send a telegram to Laird Patterson, alternate delegate of the Pennsylvania 15th Congressional District, which includes Monroe County.

The action was prompted by many phone calls and telegrams, received by the Goldwater county chairman urging that the Pennsylvania convention delegation switch from Scranton to Goldwater.

The chairman also conducted a survey by calling every 20th name in the telephone book. Of 100 people called, seven out of 10 were for Goldwater.

Detrick said the time and place for the general non-partisan county meeting later this week is still undecided.

Cars Collide On Rt. 209

SNYDERSVILLE — Four persons escaped injury in a two-car crash on business Rt. 209, four miles south of Stroudsburg Saturday.

A car driven by Robert B. Hoffman, 35, of Reading was attempting to enter Rt. 209 when the collision occurred. The other vehicle was driven by James C. Stafford, 48, of Saylorsburg, RD 1, according to Stroudsburg State Police.

Hoffman's wife Patricia and Stafford's wife Nancy were passengers.

About $450 damage is estimated to Hoffman's car and $800 to Stafford's car. Trooper Kenneth Minchew was the investigating officer.

Woman, 67, Loses Wallet

STROUDSBURG — A red wallet containing about $14 in cash was lost by a 67-year-old woman in a Stroudsburg store yesterday about 3 p.m.

Mrs. Ruth E. Buzzard of Division St., Portland said she had the wallet on the counter while making a purchase at the store. "I didn't miss the wallet until I got home. I called the store, but no report was made about a wallet being found," she added.

Stroud Planners Seek 'Professional Guidance'

STROUD TWP. — Planning commission for Stroud Twp. yesterday voted to request a joint meeting with the township's Board of Supervisors to discuss hiring a professional planner to "guide" the commission.

Opposition to the move was expressed at the meeting by William Anthony of Tante Rd.

Stanley Grace, chairman of the commission appointed by the township's governmental body, said the decision to hire a planner was reached because the group felt the need of "professional guidance."

He pointed out that part of the data from the discarded planning study of some years ago is still usable, and would reduce the cost of the proposed study. Grace estimated the cost would be from $3,000 to $6,000.

The federal government, he said, had provided funds to Harrisburg to pay two-thirds of the cost of such studies, with the local municipality to provide the remainder.

Grace said that the planning commission would have to put up the remaining third over a period of three years. Taking $3,000 as a probable cost to the township, Grace said that this would mean an increase in the commission's budget from $500 to $1,000 per year.

He said the study would involve no tax increase.

Anthony voiced opposition on the grounds that planning would mean "You (the commission) would have to bring in the (federal) government in order to hire a professional. That would mean bureaucracy."

He indicated that he felt a federally financed planning project would mean federal requirements would be placed upon township planning.

Grace said that "the only string attached by the state is that the planner must be approved." Pennsylvania has approved "nine or ten" planning firms, he said.

Commissioner Douglas J. Keough said that he believed in preserving local autonomy. "If we don't do the planning, the county will," Keough said.

He continued that a bill pending before the U.S. Congress would require, if passed, that all land within three miles of an interstate highway interchange, such as those on Interstate Rt. 80, must be zoned.

"The county, the state or the federal government will do it if we don't," Keough concluded.

Grace invited Anthony and the public to attend all of the commission's meetings on the second and fourth Mondays of the month at 4 p.m. in the Stroud Twp. Municipal Building on N. 5th St. He said that as the commission took up matters relating to particular areas, special invitations would be issued to residents.

Only Recommendations

He stressed that as an appointed body, the commission merely recommends action to the township's board of supervisors, who must then vote upon the recommendation.

"Any planner we might hire will be for guidance only," Grace concluded.

It was announced at the meeting that adjoining Hamilton Twp. was invited to send a representative. None attended.

Victory Platform

The Republican platform fashioned by Senator Barry Goldwater's forces in San Francisco is a radical departure from the "Peace and Prosperity" slogan of the Eisenhower Republican years in the White House.

The word "peace" is hardly mentioned. Instead, the Republican Party platform calls for a strong offensive against Communism. It does not call for war itself, but its statements—like those of Senator Goldwater—could lead to war in many corners of the globe.

"A dynamic strategy aimed at victory — pressing always for initiation for freedom, rejecting always appeasement and withdrawal—reduces the risk of nuclear war," the platform says.

It is certainly true that strength is necessary to deter Communist aggression. But talk of "victory," like Goldwater's talk of "total victory in the cold war," is an attractive dream but a false promise in a world held in precarious peace by the balance of nuclear terror.

The platform states that "Republicans pledge to keep the nation's sword sharp, ready and dependable," and that our stand against Communism must be "Victory for freedom. There can be no peace, there can be no security until this goal is won."

The platform reaffirms Republican commitment to "a course leading to eventual liberation of the Communist dominated nations of Eastern Europe" and pledges the party to move "more decisively to assure victory in South Viet Nam."

All this sounds very good. We would like to see freedom victorious throughout the world and all men able to freely elect their rulers. That is the goal of our foreign policy now.

But what is "the Republican alternative" to achieve these national goals? The platform is wonderfully unspecific in spite of its 10,000 words taking up two full newspaper pages.

How do we "assure victory in South Viet Nam?"

The platform says, "While confining the conflict as closely as possible, America must move to end the fighting in a reasonable time and provide guarantees against further aggression. We must make it clear to the Communist world that, when conflict is forced with America, it will end only in victory for freedom."

This is a statement of principle with which every American can agree. But it is meaningless by itself. It proposes no workable alternative to present Democratic administration foreign policy in South Viet Nam, or anywhere else.

It all adds up to reckless calls for "victory" against Communism—to be won, of course, with a $5 billion reduction in federal spending, abolition of excise taxes, and further income tax cuts!

Comment Of The Day

"I'll never give up because we are right."
—Pennsylvania Governor William

Scranton speaking yesterday to the New York State Republican delegation.

Civil Rights Pen

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON — The rumormongers, as we take off for San Francisco and the Republican National Convention, is that Senator Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen is making dubious use of one of the pens which President Johnson used to sign the civil rights bill.

The story is that Senator Dirksen is using his Johnson gift pen to write his nominating speech for Senator Barry Goldwater.

There were so many odds and ends to clean up before starting the westward trip.

One was the question whether Senator Maurice Neuberger would, or would not, marry Dr. Philip Solomon of Boston. After announcements, denials and counter-denials it was reaffirmed that she would.

This leaves the Democratic Mrs. Neuberger too concerned with matrimony to give as much thought as usual to politics. She has to scout around for somebody not to give her away.

There seemed to be no point in waiting around Washington for former President Eisenhower to endorse Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania.

If he does come out for Scranton it will seem just as improbable in San Francisco as in Washington.

It will be a nice change to get away from all these youth riots and see some adult riots. San Francisco should be good for some, even if Goldwater isn't stopped.

The thing I can't understand about these youth riots, especially like the one at the jazz festival in Newport, R.I., is the way the youngsters stand and throw rocks at police.

When I was young we didn't stand and challenge cops. The appearance of just one cop, let alone an army, would send us running.

Maybe we were bigger cowards in those days — or policemen were more intimidating?

Before departing the nation's capital I ran into Postmaster General John A. Gronouski. He recounted this experience:

He received a letter from a man in the Miami area. The Floridian charged that "thieving mailmen" were stealing all his mail.

The Postmaster General put his inspection system to work. The inspectors finally turned in the following report:

The man had Box No. 1670 in the local postoffice. The postoffice was torn down, and a new one erected. In the new postoffice he was assigned Box No. 1702.

The man refused to pick up his mail from Box 1702, protesting that it was not his number. Hundreds of letters, including bills and checks, piled up in it. Messengers were sent to the man with this accumulated mail, but he would not accept any of it, saying it hadn't come from his box.

At last Postmaster General Gronouski hit upon a happy solution. He had the man's old box number scratched under the new number. The man appeared now comes daily and picks up his mail.

Mrs. Warren Smith, an attractive matron of our town, recounts a story about her grandfather which, she says, establishes him as having been an art critic, of sorts.

The grandfather, Sidney Morse, was an attorney in London. Toward the end of the century he purchased a London town house from a James Abbott McNeill Whistler, the painter.

Whistler sent word to Morse that he would like the furnishings to remain in the old house. He mentioned, particularly, a painting which he wished Morse would accept as a gift, and leave on the wall.

When Whistler's request was brought to him, Morse refused firmly.

"No sir," he cried, "it's got to go! No one's mother is going to be on my wall but my own!"

One of the reasons I'm so eager to go to San Francisco is that I've always wanted to see a dinosaur. Democrats and liberal Republicans say that Senator Goldwater is one.

The latest word, however, is that Senator Goldwater isn't going to be on display very much. This is gloomy news for us dinosaur fans.

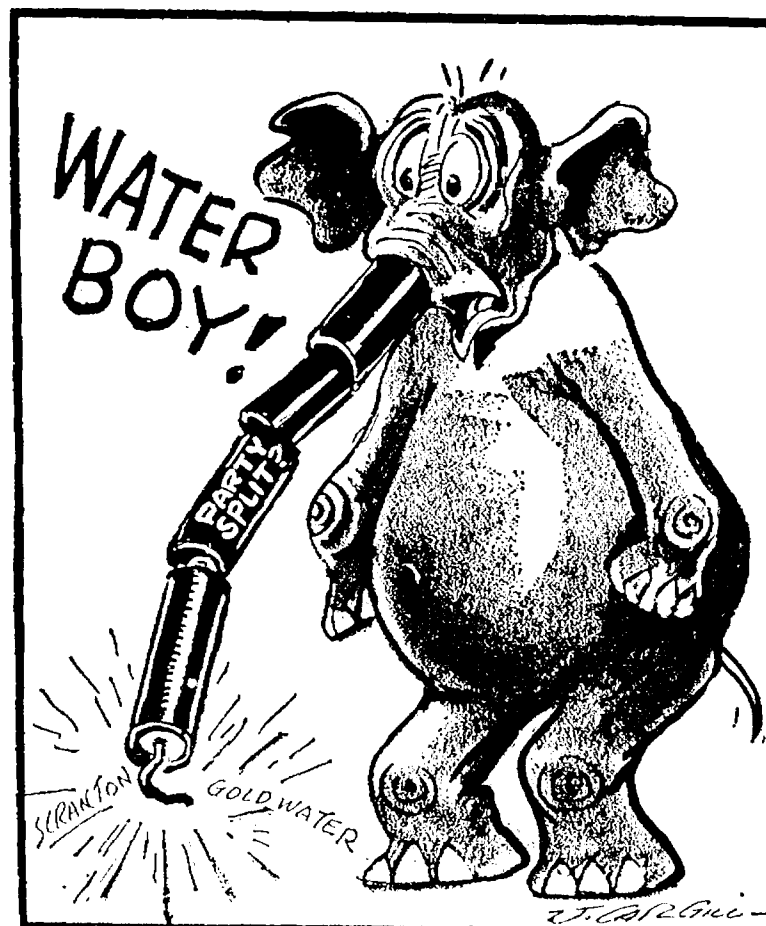

If I can't see a dinosaur, I may have to settle for a pre-dinosaur. I hope former Senator William Knowland of California is on display.

A tipoff on the ability of Ed Ede is that his services are sought on both sides of the fence.

They who will seek the deeper truth. Will gain the higher excellence. Who keep the vision of their youth.

When they have gained more common sense.

The Pennsylvania Story

Scranton's Sharp Words

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — Significantly and understandably Pennsylvania Democrats have kept (ominously) quiet during the Scranton-for-President campaign flurry, chiding the Governor only fitfully on strictly periphery items.

There have been some minor complaints within their own camp over this seeming passing up of golden opportunities to nibble at their mortal Republican gubernatorial enemy — but behind all this is a piece of strategy Democrats strategists hope will pay off at the critical time.

That critical time is this fall during the heat of the November general election campaign.

That is the time they hope to lower the boom on William Warren Scranton — the idea being of course to provide as healthy a swing as possible for President Johnson in the presidential runoff.

The strategy is built along the general theme: why you should vote Democratic this year — not Republican!

The key to the "why" revolves around the things Mr. Scranton in the heat of his scrabble campaign has said against front-runner Senator Barry Goldwater (should he gain the GOP presidential nod as now seems most apparent).

Unquestionably for a nomination campaigner, Mr. Scranton himself undeniably lowered the boom on his opponent both in the lampooning vein and the critical blast vein with such references as ignorant, backward, impulsive, fearful, a shooter from the hip and similar endearing descriptive terms — normally reserved for opposite party opponents.

These are the utterances Keystone State Democrats plan to toss at Republican efforts in the Keystone State this fall.

Their intentions is, and if they can make it stick they've got a good point, that if this is how fellow Republicans feel about their (fellow) candidate for the Presidency — he should not be elected!

Indications are too that this same strategy of Scranton-against-Goldwater is destined to play an important role on the national level as Democrats seek to present President Johnson as the "ideal" man to recline in the White House during the next four years.

Perhaps nothing has tickled Pennsylvania Democrats in recent years as the lambasting Mr. Scranton has handed Senator Goldwater over the past few months — and how Republicans, in this state in particular, plan to combat this strategy now that the die has been cast no one in GOPland has the foggiest idea at the moment.

As one Democratic leader expressed it:

"If nothing else, Mr. Scranton has done an admirable job of winning the campaign for us this fall!"

Expert On Negligence

A battery of Monroe County lawyers—through a spokesman—persuaded Francis H. Ede, a veteran Northampton County attorney to counsel Albert Kodas, a truck driver involved in the recent Marshalls Creek disaster which took six lives.

Kodas, a resident of Port Carbon and an employee of the American Cyanamid plant in Pottsville, had sought Monroe barristers to handle his case but was turned away. Kodas is a 23-year veteran at driving explosive-laden trucks.

The reason? Practically all of the lawyers in the area are involved, with clients who are expected to bring suit or settle for damages that erupted from the blast that killed six, injured 10, and destroyed or damaged many homes in the disaster area.

Why Ede? Well, the resident of Pen Argyl is rated one of the leading experts in the state on negligence cases. That is the man from the State Belt who had served three terms in the State Assembly at Harrisburg, knows the ins and outs of law dealing with "lack of care by a prudent person."

A graduate of Dickinson Law School, Ede has been practicing 44 years in Northampton. At one time the long-time Republican political leader operated two offices—one in Nazareth and the other in Pen Argyl. Of late, however, he has directed his counsel from the State Belt town.

We asked why they were found under the seat in the cab? Ede replied, "They kept catching on to his trouser pants leg while he footed the gas and brake pedals and he put the signs underneath the seat."

Ede is strictly playing a wait and see game. But he vows, "I've got a few aces in the hole that need a little more scrutinizing," he emphasized.

Does anyone know that signs were ever actually on the truck? "Yes," he commented, "two men who read

"big, bad business" have gained money-wise via his court tactics.

Not too long ago Kodas representative won a case in Northampton that brought $122,000 to his clients. It was the largest amount of cash ever received by damage suit participants in the history of the county's court.

"We're trying to disprove criminal negligence," Ede remarked in an interview with this writer. "There was no malice in Kodas's actions."

"Here is a driver who worked seven years for the same firm, has a fine reputation, and who I believe is as honest as the day is long."

The nearly 70-year-old lawyer confided that "I doubt that the ICC Interstate Commerce Commission has jurisdiction in this particular case."

He went on, "I know the story that the signs dropped off the truck is hard to believe. But they did. Kodas, after spending 25 minutes at the scene before the explosion, drove back toward East Stroudsburg and put them in the seat of the tractor (cab). He had retrieved them at the Encore Diner and at the blinker light intersection at Marshalls Creek."

There has been no criminal charges lodged by Monroe County or the Justice Department of the United States. It is expected that if any action is taken against Kodas it will follow the ICC public hearing at the courthouse in Stroudsburg July 23-24. Then recommendations by the ICC will either take Kodas off or put him on the criminal negligence hook.

Stories have been circulated that Kodas has been left to shift for himself by his employers — American Cyanamid. Ede said this is not true. "Kodas is working every day at the plant in a supervisory capacity in the loading department. His relationship with his employer was never strained."

Ede figures that Kodas's words to him, "With God as my judge I'm telling the truth," are enough for the Northampton County barrister to believe. "Kodas is a hard working man of excellent character. This type does not perform acts with malice in their hearts."

The Allen-Scott Report

Gemini Delay

Robert S. Allen

SAN FRANCISCO — Republican campaign strategists are heaving a big sigh of relief over good news about an unprecedented election problem that has been giving them quite a bit of backstage concern—the history-making two-man Gemini spacecraft orbit.

This spectacular experiment, certain to capture world attention, will not be attempted in late October just before the fateful November 3 balloting. That's what the Democrats had been cannily planning. They proposed to make the utmost use of this dramatic event for vote-winning purposes — by bringing President Johnson "officially" into the unique act.

It would have been a smash electioneering coup. But Representative Bob Wilson, Calif., chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee and member of the powerful Armed Services Committee, has brought cheering inside word that the contemplated publicity stratagem has gone awry.

Still-unresolved technical and equipment difficulties pulled the rug out from under it. They are barring an October Gemini orbit.

From authoritative sources in the National Aeronautics & Space Administration Wilson has ascertained that the decision has definitely been made not to undertake to put the two-man Gemini spacecraft into orbit before December or early next year. No new date has been set, and is not likely to be for some time.

The President has been apprised of this.

He was told NASA scientists felt strongly it would be too risky to attempt a Gemini launching in October. They pointed out that failure, with possible disaster to the two astronauts, could boomarang devastatingly against the administration.

The White House bowed to this blunt advice — even though it meant abandoning a grandiose electioneering scheme.

This called for the President's being "hooked" directly to the two Gemini astronauts for a "live" conversation that would be broadcast and televised throughout the world.

The designated astronauts are Virgil Grissom and John Young.

During the Gemini orbit, the first of its kind, they will perform a number of experiments, including one of the astronauts' actually leaving the capsule for a few minutes.

Unwanted Gift — While Senator Barry Goldwater, with characteristic candor, admits he still has a goodly way to go in his quest for the White House, he already has 1,000 copies of an inaugural address—which he doesn't want.

It came about as follows: Last winter Congress voted $50,000 to provide every member with copies of the inaugural address of the late President. Printed on handsome parchment paper, senators have 1,000 copies to give away; House members 500.

Shortly before Goldwater departed for the San Francisco convention, a Senate page knocked on his office door and wheeled in a number of boxes.

"What are those?" asked the Arizona.

"Your allotment of inaugural addresses," replied the page.

"Inaugural addresses," exclaimed Goldwater. "It's a bit early for that, isn't it?"

"These are copies of President Kennedy's inaugural address," explained the page. "Every senator is getting 1,000 copies."

"What am I going to do with them?" inquired Goldwater.

"A number of senators are storing them," suggested the page.

"That's a good idea," said Goldwater. "Suppose you do that with these boxes. This is one inaugural address I don't think I'll need."

Senator Edwin Mecham, R-N. Mex., flatly refused to accept his allotment, saying he had no use for them and didn't want them. Asked if he wanted to store them, he replied he didn't care what was done with them.

Other Republican legislators are trading their allocations for Agriculture Department Year Books — at the rate of 100 for one Year Book.

Dixie

Louisiana became one of the United States in 1812. The French influence was strong and continued for a long time, for Louisiana had been French territory for about a century.

In pre-Civil War days $10 notes were issued by a bank in Louisiana. In the center of each note was the French word "dix," meaning ten, which denoted the value of the note in terms of dollars.

These notes were circulated widely in Louisiana and were popularly called "dixies."

Persons from other areas who did business in Louisiana referred to the state as the "land of dixies." The name was modified to the "land of dixie" and was applied to the entire South. Further modification resulted in "Dixie Land" and, finally, "Dixie."

About Town

—By Gene Brown

From the Country Exchange. To many boys, moving the lawn is a dull and heartily disliked chore. Johnnie Madison is no exception. Last week his mother told him that if he did not cut the lawn regularly she would have a man to do it. The man's wages, she said, successively, would be credited against Johnnie's allowance, present and future.

A day or two passed. Johnnie took a look at school for $2. He rushed home with the money, handed it to his mother and grandly announced: "This will help pay for the lawn!"

"You can't win 'em all," said the belated (WIS.) surprise.

Not the "Boys" but Books. A night school student protested that although he hadn't missed a class, notice had been mailed to him that he had been absent three nights in a row.

The instructor checked the record, agreed that a mistake had been made, and assured the student that he would set the record straight with the principal.

"The principal?" said the student. "I'm not worried about the principal. Who's going to explain it to my wife?"

OVERHEARD (wife to hubby): "I've got good news for you, dear. You haven't been paying those auto insurance premiums for nothing!"

2 Parties Combined To Elect Area Native To House

By Peggy Baneroff
Record Correspondent

NEWFOUNDLAND — When the talk gets around to politics, as it occasionally does in the Poconos, the folks in Greentown like to recall the time Republicans and Democrats alike united to elect a Greentown native to serve in the House of Representatives.

The introduction of the name of the Hon. George Washington Kipp into any conversation is likely to end up the same way. "Why did he die in British Columbia of acute indigestion," while an Indian guide tried frantically to signal a passing

Deaf Mute Fined For Conduct

EAST STROUDSBURG — A 53-year-old man, reportedly a deaf mute, paid a fine and costs of $19 on a charge of disorderly conduct in East Stroudsburg Saturday before East Stroudsburg Justice of the Peace Harold Larson Sr.

Ernest J. Gordon of Nashville, Ky., was selling religious novelties and became disorderly at some of the homes he solicited. Also, he did not obtain a permit to solicit in the Borough of East Stroudsburg.

He reportedly left a note on one of the homes which read: "You run, you think I care," according to East Stroudsburg police. He was apprehended Saturday morning in Stroudsburg by Stroudsburg Borough police.

ship?"

George Washington Kipp was born in Greentown, Pike County, on March 28, 1847. He was to have very little education, but his lack of extensive formal teaching failed to hinder his success.

Records show that his rise in the world of business was not because he rose upon the failures of others, but because of the strength of his character, the keenness of his own perceptions, and the strictness of his integrity.

Man of Honor

"He was a man of highest honor," recalled the Hon. Mr. Wilson, of Pennsylvania, during memorial services held jointly by the House and Senate in 1911.

Wilson cited a statement of Kipp's:

"I know your purpose to be right — I am in hearty accord with it—but I have made some pledges to my people and I do not know whether or not they will view this act as being in violation of those pledges, and until I have consulted them and found what their viewpoint is relative to my pledges, I cannot go with you."

To the Hon. Mr. Lamb, of Virginia, Kipp was "a plain, unpretentious unassuming business man, generous to a degree, and full of the milk of human kindness." Lamb reported that, while attending Kipp's funeral services at Towanda, Pa., he came to realize that "George W. Kipp was strong with these people because he loved them and was frank in all of his dealings with them. He helped his people, regardless of their politics."

Discussing Kipp, Lamb further wrote: "It is the spirit in which we act that is the highest matter. It is the spirit of a man that gives him tone and character. A spirit of friendliness was the leading trait in the character of Mr. Kipp. For the most part, it is the American spirit today; cultivated and encouraged through every available source; neglected, some Gibbon will write our decline and fall."

Members of the senate and house, in eulogizing him, noted over and over that George Washington Kipp was a man

TB Society X-Rays 908

STROUDSBURG — Due to mechanical trouble with its mobile X-ray unit, the Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society was able to X-ray only 908 county foodhandlers last week.

Mrs. Estelle Fleming, society executive director, said last night she will ask the state to send another unit to the county to complete the survey.

The society sends the unit to various locations in the resort area to X-ray foodhandlers. Last week the X-ray machine was out of order Monday and part of Tuesday.

who was twice elected to the House of Representatives from a district normally opposed to him politically. Republicans have a solid and formidable majority in his district - yet he, a Democrat, was twice elected.

The Hon. Mr. Gregg, of Pennsylvania, came to know Kipp only because their offices adjoined - Gregg in 356; Kipp in 354. But one thing he noted, "Kipp was the one particular person who thought that a child amounted to something in this world. I feel that this made him a little bit bigger than the ordinary man."

The Hon. Mr. Ansherry, of Ohio, speaking of Kipp, said, "He came up from the soil. He was one of, and always in intimate touch with the common people. He was educated in the great university of the common people - the public school. He was a self-made man. Compelled to make his own way in life, he started as a lumberman, and mastered every detail of that business."

Fatal Journey

It was this business of lumbering which brought about the fatal journey to Vancouver Island, in British Columbia - a trip that ended July 24, 1911, in death.

During his two terms in Congress, Kipp served on the Invalid Pension Committee during the 60th Congress, and the Committee on Agriculture during the 62nd Congress. (He was defeated by a narrow margin upon his bid for re-election to the 61st congress, but came back with a strong majority during the next election.)

Kipp was the son of John Kipp, who died in his 75th year in 1892.

Poor Parking Area Can Lose Customers

Varying weather conditions, such as we experience in our area, cause a rash of driving and parking problems for many people around their home or business property.

Dust drifts across lawns and comes to rest on the buildings causing them to need repainting long before it would normally be needed. Mud, washouts and puddles create a like problem and if yours is a business it often costs you customers.

Shiffer's Bituminous Service

Company of Stroudsburg are specialists in the field of blacktop paving and have put many businesses on "the road to prosperity" by applying a first class paving job.

Only the finest materials are used in formulating their blacktop and it is applied by experienced workmen. The resulting job is not only attractive but will last for years to come. Shiffer's have paved hundreds of roads, drives, walks, tennis courts, parking areas, traffic and storage areas throughout the area.

Dusting Oil Available
In some cases, a person is not ready for blacktopping but does require some method of dust control. Shiffer's offer these people a specially compounded dusting oil which holds down the dust. They are equipped to apply this material.

Whatever your paving needs may be you can depend on Shiffer's Bituminous Co. They'll be glad to give you a free estimate! Call 421-1871 or Kresgeville 681-4284.

ON THE HOUSE
By Andy Lang
Kitchens and bathrooms are two areas where home-owners can satisfy their desires for bright colors, broad patterns, and individual decorating touches.

Striking designs and brilliant hues that might be out of place in other parts of the house are greeted with cries of delight and admiration when displayed in the kitchen and the bathroom. It is there, for instance, where you will find the unusual and off-beat in wallpaper, perfectly acceptable as long as there is a harmonizing note in the overall motif.

A typical example of what can be done in the bathroom is the application of a new five-foot-wide accent panel of plastic-finished hardboard. Placed on the wall over the tub, one of these panels transforms the wall into any one of nine attractive scenes and designs including a sea-scape, a mountain view, a desert and Oriental setting.

The murals feature gold-on-white artwork, with gold anodized moldings. Matching white panels are available for the side walls. The panels can be installed on any solid backing.

First step in the installation process is laying a heavy bead of caulking around the top of the tub, installing edge molding and adding a thick bead of caulking in the molding channel. A notched spreader is used to apply a thin coat of special mastic to the back of the hardboard panel. The mural then is placed in position on the wall, with a certain amount of pressure to assure a strong bond, after which the inside corner moldings are cut and nailed in place.

The end walls are measured, and the white side panels cut to fit. They also are attached to the walls with the mastic. The outside corner moldings are fitted and installed, using a hammer and wood block to tap them into place.

Designers Fit Fashions To Change In Women

By Bobby Westbrook
New York — "Designers don't change styles. American women decide when it is time for a change, and the designers create the form that change demands in clothes. Successful designers are those who get the message," said Larry Aldrich, president of the New York

Couture Group prior to his own showing during the closing days of the New York Couture Group national press week at the Pierre.

The "message" for Fall and Winter 1964 is that women want to be frankly feminine and want clothes that enhance or reveal feminine features. Aldrich summarized that feeling in his collection with pronounced fitted tops, swiveling flares that met the figure where curves are seductive, and with lots of flickering movement in the skirts.

Another message of the season is freedom of choice. What women think enhances their femininity varies with the individual woman. Whatever it is is not necessarily right — certainly not for every woman. Take those discotheque dresses for instance: simple black shafts with plunging necklines, no sleeves, short flared or ruffled hemlines over black lace stockings and scarcely anything on underneath. They'd make the matronly look like a sack of potatoes. And those mesh stockings or knit to match knee socks for daytime clothes aren't for the woman with fat legs.

Vincent Monte-Sano of Monte-Sano and Pruzan, another fashion leader, whose designers include Jacques Tiffau winner of the Coty Fashion Award for the second year, explained another facet of fashion: there's a reason and that reason is balance and harmony of design. When clothes move closer to the body at the waistline, skirts flare out, when skirts flare out they must be shorter.

Monte-Sano also used the term "chiseled" to describe the silhouette. These aren't clothes cut out with a cookie cutter, they are soft but molded. It is the way he put it. A cookie cutter would have a hard time cutting out his floor-length evening coat of green feathers, that's for sure. He used a lot of yokes to define a shoulder above a willowy body, and high standing or ring collars, so prevalent in many collections but with his own distinction.

Other prevalent notes: dinner suits of dress and jacket or coat to replace the cocktail dress; long dresses for evening, many of them wool, often jewel-embroidered for a warm and cozy winter. Maybe not cozy but spectacular are the new glamour gowns and pants for at home wear which certainly are designed to please more than mere husbands. Better get your guest list ready.

And look over your jewelry. The proud neck needs dangling earrings, and there are lots of long chains of gold or byzantine type jewels.

Shoes: crescent toes and generally lower heels to balance the new line, and a cutaway look to show more feet in sling backs, evening sandals, but still with the toes covered up for those who agree with the Chinese or mid-Victorian that feet are sexy.

Back to individual designers: Bill Blass for Maurice Rentner goes feminine and romantic in Gentry costumes with Regency overcoats, cutaway costumes with dinner jacket styling and ascot suits with the look of Saville Row with foulard ascots and linings.

Teal Traina goes back to the famous movie star era of the late late show with smoking jacket costumes, Jimmy Walker numbers with cutaway and high peaked lapels in race track checks for nighttime, and a speakeasy look for nighttime, very leggy and shimmy-ish.

Malcolm Starr twinkles by night. One particular star was a dress with a black lace, scooped neck bodice over a white satin skirt with a green satin bow at the waistline.

Countess Alexander uses a jeweled mohair sweater over a slim coat of slipper satin and in another mood brocade in a short wrapped jacket with a black mink collar.

Roxanne for Samuel Winston concentrates on women of refinement and money — lots of money. Among her evening costumes, which glisten rather than glitter is one fabulous dress of horizontal rows of jeweled flowers in pink, blue and green alternating with bands of gold embroidery with gold and pink drops, all on a column of pink gros de londre.

Fashion editors, stuffed with velvet, blinded by satin and jewels and smothered by fur, nevertheless took a good look at the Kimberly knits which are practically the uniform of the working fashion reporter.

This new season they are doing knits in quilted cloque and whipcord knits as well as ribbed wool ottomans, and have an evening line of glitter knits threaded with metal.

And then went back to glamour with the Fabba mink furs at a champagne party — at least some of them did while others hung on grimly to typewriters which were vanishing from the Press Room even as the final deathless word on fashion was being written.

REVERSIBLE tweed wrap coat sports one side of pink and grey Litex tweed and the other in brown lapin. Monte-Sano & Pruzan use it to top a matching front yoke shift dress which belts loosely on the hip.

Just Between Us—

by Bobby Westbrook

Name-dropping is another prerogative of Press Week — people and places. There's the editor who is keeping tabs on what a fellow resident on the 14th floor at the Hilton, Eddie Fisher, is having for breakfast; and the one who sat in Liz Taylor Burton's seat at one of the Burton's favorite restaurants, the Voinis.

More formally, there was Jacquelyn Mayer, Miss America 1963, who as a former chubby teen was a natural for the Giddings luncheon showing for Trim Girl and Trim Ten wardrobes which began with non-alcoholic cocktails, of Tab, of course. The slimming tricks consisted of jumpers instead of skirts and shirts, princess lines, panels, and low-placed pleats.

The youth market is a major one these days, since that's where a lot of the family budget goes, a fact recognized by Sears Roebuck who entertained the fashion press at a dinner in the Persian room of the plaza, and featured clothes designed for and by the 13-year-old market. Monique Van Vooren, featured singer at the Plaza, had a sophisticated repertoire hardly meant for the pop set, by the way.

Wined and dined, the press appetite is apt to be jaded by now, but even they perked up at the luncheon at The Four Seasons, where they were the guests of AMF Pinspotters, who had down bowling costumes, complete with British models, in from London for the showings. The dessert, however, was strictly American Fourth of July with red and white ice cream pyramids, surrounded by blue cotton candy, each portion topped by a lighted sparkler, spitting sparks, in the spectacular setting of 20 foot high rubber plants.

If fashions get to look alike, so does food. There was veal with truffles at the Four Seasons for lunch and veal scallopini for the DuPont dinner at the Pierre. Different however, always does a fast-paced show of fashions for both men and women in the new fabrics and this time had six elevators on the stage for the presentation of fashions, feet first in Corafam shoes.

Press Week is closing with two full days at the Fair where the fashion story will be continued in one form or another. It's a story that fashion editors will continue when they get home and whenever there is room to tuck it in between 1964 fashions in political conventions. For now they can only say that for tastes, both liberal and conservative, there will be fashions to fit.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

"Today is the day when, if all goes well, Evelyn Wyckoff, star of "Sound of Music" at Pocono Playhouse, will be a luncheon guest in our Tea Room. "Papa" Wyckoff, and perhaps some of "the boys," will be on hand to greet her, and I'm hoping that Pete will later join me in chatting with her via tape for a Wyckoff Shopper radio program. Pete is, of course, one of our merchandising directors... a good one. But the theatre lost a great talent when he channeled his talents in this direction. He is a born comic, and whenever he's around gales of laughter issue from the employee's luncheon or wherever he happens to be.

"Sound of Music" is a marvelous opportunity for Evelyn Wyckoff to display her numerous talents, as everyone knows who has seen the show on Broadway, or thrilled to the wonderful melodies that have come from it. The story of the Trapp Family Singers, it is inspiring, wholesome, and brimming over with pathos and humor. I have seen the Broadway production, and it left me so enriched I certainly would encourage everyone I know to see the show during the next two weeks at the excellent summer theatre in Canadensis. Much of theatre today is lawdry and cheap—but "Sound of Music" is just the opposite. It is the story of a family for the enjoyment of other families... and can be recommended for all ages.

But right now I must comb my hair, powder my nose and make myself presentable to meet our guest. This takes time. In the glamour department, I haven't much to work with!

While we're talking summer theatre, I must mention a most delightful evening spent Thursday at Cherry Lane Playhouse, which is now in its third year and growing as sturdily as a well fed babe! Cherry Lane is presenting a series of musicals this season. Some of them are revivals that dip rather deeply into the wishing well of theatrical memory. Others, such as "My Fair Lady," are still riding the crest of a popular wave.

The other evening I saw "Desert Song," which was directed by Sam Lax, son of Edith and Herman Lax of Stroudsburg. The audience was enthusiastic, as well they might be, for it was quite a production despite the limitations of space and facilities that are a natural, almost fundamental part of the summer theatre.

Jack Irwin, one of the Cherry Lane producers, is traveling this summer with Ginger Rogers in "To-variety," and is here only on occasion—but all is going well on the local front nonetheless, with some of last year's favorites back once again. Among them is Barbara Cole, who was delightfully Scottish in "Brigadoon," naughtily French in "Desert Song," and preparing to be charmingly cockney in "My Fair Lady" when it opens for two big weeks on July 20th.

Barbara is petite, bright eyed, and blonde, and resembles Laurie of "Oklahoma," another role which she plays to the hilt. She is easy to meet and talk with... so absolutely down to earth that it's no time at all before you are asking her if those curls she wore in her neck last night were her own or a hairpiece. They are... a hairpiece, of dyed, but the fluffy topknot she wore was real hair. Barbara's career was going great guns until some months ago when she suffered an illness that kept her temporarily "at liberty." Now she is happily back in harness, singing her heart out, and heading again for the heights. Just between us, I think there's no stopping her... and once you've met her this pleases you, immensely!

Cepeda's Hitting Streak Lifts Pressure On Mays

By BEN OLAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Orlando Cepeda of the San Francisco Giants has taken some of the pressure off Willie Mays while moving in among the top five in the National League batting race.

Mays earned the slugging lead for the opening two months of the season as Cepeda and Willie McCovey failed to produce the long ball consistently. McCovey remains shackled with a .221 average, 12 homers and 35 runs batted in.

Cepeda, however, has started to carry his weight, climbing into a fourth place tie at .318 with Milwaukee's Joe Torre.

In last week's games, the Giants' first baseman advanced from ninth place, collecting 11 hits in 24 times at bat or a .458 pace, for a 13-point increase. He has 15 home runs and 49 RBIs in 69 games. Cepeda had only six homers and 19 runs batted in after 39 games.

Mays, meanwhile, walloped four homers and drove in eight runs last week to maintain the lead in these departments. His totals are 27 home runs and 63 RBIs. Willie lost ground in the batting race, dropping one notch to third at .338. He had eight hits in 25 attempts and lost one point.

Still In First
Pittsburgh's Roberto Clement led the 1961 batting king, continued to hold first place. He lifted his average three points

CLEVELAND (AP) — Tom Tresh clouted two homers and Clete Boyer and Mickey Mantle one each Monday night, powering the New York Yankees to a 10-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

It was the seventh straight Yankee victory over the Indians this season and moved second place New York to within 1½ games of American League leaders Baltimore.

Leon Wagner, Woodie Held and Tito Francona homered for the Indians. Cleveland picked up another run on Bob Chance's seventh inning double. Francona's single and a sacrifice fly by Chico Salmon.

Rollie Sheldon got the victory his second against one defeat. New York 002 200 023—10 13 1 Cleveland 000 100 111—4 6 6 Sheldon and Howard, Donnan, Bell (7), John (8), McMahon (8), Siebert (9) and Azcue, W., Sheldon, 2-1, 1—Donovan, 4-7.

By WILL GRIMSLEY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tony Lema wouldn't give a discarded champagne cork for his chances in the PGA Golf Championship this week, but he's ready to give it a try.

"I'm emotionally drained dry after the British Open," said the gangling iron wizard from San Leandro, Calif., winner of the 1941-year-old British Classic last weekend. "I don't see how I can possibly get myself up for another tournament so quickly."

"If this weren't the PGA, if this were just another weekly tournament, I think I'd skip it."

Lags Trophy
Nattily dressed in a dark blue suit and lugging the ancient British Open trophy in a wooden box as if it were precious treasure, the good-looking, 30-year-old Californian flew into town shortly after noon Monday and went immediately to the Columbus Country Club.

The 46th annual PGA tournament opens Thursday over the 6,851-yard Columbus course with all the big names of golf, foreign and domestic, listed in the 168-man field.

Jack Nicklaus, the 24-year-old defending champion, lives here. Arnold Palmer, the all-time leading money winner, checked in and immediately started hammering away on the head of his putter, which has been a bit on the cool side.

Venturi Rushes In
Ken Venturi, the new National Open champion, rushed in from New Rochelle, N.Y., where he lost the Wyckoff Round Robin by a single point.

Gary Player of South Africa and left-handed Bob Charles of New Zealand flew in from Scotland, after choking on the smoke of Lema's spectacular victory.

Phil Rodgers Sets Record; Leads Open

CHANTILLY, France (AP) — Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., shot a course record 66 Monday and took the lead after the first round of play in the French open golf championship.

Rodgers, who is not eligible for the United States PGA Championship in Columbus, Ohio, this week, said that even with his record score "I was missing a lot of easy putts."

But his approaches were working beautifully on the rolling Chantilly course, which measures 6,722 yards.

Rodgers, 26, although a veteran of the U. S. pro circuit, has served only three years of the required five-year apprenticeship to be eligible for the title. Before his 66, Tony Grubb of Britain held the lead with a four-under-par 67. This also bettered the course record of 68 held by Paul Coste de James, town R. L.

Tied for third place were Peter Thomson of Australia, Brian Wilkes of South Africa, Jean Garande of France and Guy Wolstenholme of Britain, all with 68's.

William Kittleman of Philadelphia and Alfonso Angelini of Italy were locked at 69. Buck White of Hollywood, Fla., and Stuart Davies of South Africa were tied at 71.

Perry Billed

Colts Protest Bat-Smashing

HOUSTON (AP) — Gaylord Perry, San Francisco Giant pitcher, smashed the bat of Nellie Fox, Houston second baseman, in a rage Sunday night after Fox had singled home the winning run in the ninth inning for a 5-4 victory.

This latest development in the rumput between the first place Giants and the Colts that broke out in the seventh inning was disclosed Monday when the Colts filed a protest with National League President Warren Giles. The Colts said they are sending a bill to Perry for the cost of the bat and indicated legal action would be taken against him if there is no rule prohibiting such action by a player.

Perry, who sat down on the pitching mound and changed his shoes when called into the game following the abrupt ejection of Billy O'Dell, picked up Fox's bat and smashed it against the side of the Giant dugout.

It was the same bat with which Fox had singled home the winning run Thursday night against the Los Angeles Dodgers. That hit also came with two out in the ninth.

Cubs Clobber Dodgers, 10-4

CHICAGO (AP) — A five-run uprising capped by Andre Rodgers' three-run homer after two were out in the sixth inning carried the Chicago Cubs to a 10-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday.

Don Drysdale, an 11-game winner, was victimized by the spurge and suffered his eighth loss.

The Cubs took a 2-1 lead into the sixth. Drysdale retired the first two batters and then yielded singles to Ron Santo, Ernie Banks, Len Gabrielson and Dick Bertell before Rodgers hammered his ninth homer in to the left field bleachers. They added three more at the expense of ex-Cub Jim Brewer in the eighth.

REPORT FROM VACATION

I went to the Jersey Shore to find out who most baseball fans are rooting for these days and to see how many people are wearing the new-fashioned topless bathing suits — not necessarily in that order.

There were a lot of topless bathing suits, but all of them were worn by men, unfortunately.

Perhaps the women were heeding an almost inconspicuous hand-written sign on the Boardwalk at Seaside Heights:

"No persons allowed on the Boardwalk without a top. This also includes women!"

Well, they demanded equal rights for years and now they have apparently received complete equality.

There does not seem to be any predominance of any one baseball team in south Jersey. They root for the Phillies, Yanks and Mets around here," said one restaurant owner.

This remark interested me because I have yet been able to find a sports fan who says, "I root for the Mets."

I couldn't find any in south Jersey, either, although almost every public place which has a TV set flashes the same channel that the Mets are seen.

Upon further questioning of various persons, you suddenly learn that there are actually four types of baseball fans in this area — those who openly root for the Phillies and Yanks, those who secretly root for the Mets (and probably go to Concession for committing such a sin) and the usual anti-Yankee east.

There was one guy on the Boardwalk who explained the situation honestly: "Sure there are Mets fans," he said. "They're the same guys who hate the Yanks. Guys who root for the Mets hate everything. They hate winners, anyway. That is why they hate the Yanks. The Yanks win pennants and World Series all the time. About the only thing the team loses is attendance."

Actually, the Mets can be blamed for that, but they get blamed for so many other things why bother?

There was plenty of time to talk to an assortment of sports fans. The weather was not exactly the type you would want at the Shore.

For instance, in Thursday's edition of the Ashbury Park Evening Press, the top story read:

"Nearly as much rain fell during 17 hours yesterday and early today as usually falls during the entire month of July. The rain poured a dry spell that has parched the Shore since April."

"Between noon yesterday and 5 a.m. today, 4.20 inches of rainfall was recorded. . . . Normal rainfall for July is 4.25 inches."

The downpour caused local flooding in low-lying areas. . . . Winds reached a maximum velocity of 32 miles an hour from the Northeast."

There's nothing worse than a Northeast at the Shore. Except, perhaps, watching the Mets on television.

Cy Barrett Says

Jobless Teens Wonder

DEAR CY: This is in reference to the letter addressed to you regarding teenagers and jobs. We would like to be of assistance to those organizations and communities who are concerned with the problem of youth employment and who are interested in establishing employment referral services for these young people. We have had tremendous success with our pilot project.

MRS. MIRIAM F. KING, Chairman, Livonia, Michigan Commission on Children and Youth

DEAR MRS. KING: Thank you so much for writing me regarding the extremely vital work you and your commission are doing for teenagers in supplementing other job placement services. Note-worthy is the fact you have provided at least one job experience for 99 per cent of the young people currently registered with your organization.

Those who are slow to grasp the pressing problem of jobs for teenagers should absorb these young people's comments you recorded: "Nobody is willing to give me the first job." "Nobody seems willing to let me show what I can do." "I feel like a fool asking for money all the time." "We don't have enough to go around in our house." "Wish I could get a job—anything." "Maybe if I wasn't in school, I could get a job and make some real money." "I'm sure tired of always taking and never giving."

It makes me feel like I'm not good for much." "I like school and want to be a doctor someday but I need money. What can I do to get it?" These are the voices of our teenagers and the hour is late. Action in aiding our youth to gain job opportunities and work experiences is long, long overdue.

DEAR CY: Would you please try to explain the car rental situation to me? To save money, we decided to sell our automobile and rent a car on weekends. This has worked perfectly; we avoided parking problems and use public transportation during the week. Last Friday, my husband went over to pick up a rental car and was told everything was out. Believe me, we could not find a car to rent anywhere in town! The weekend was no fun!

DEAR GRACE: Until recently, Friday afternoon through Sunday evening was the great breathless desert for the car rental business. Then, many families discovered renting cars on weekends for the same reasons you have. Due to this, and the strong entry of economy rental operations, the car rental industry is expected to increase its sales one-fifth to about 371 million dollars this year.

Speaking of fun... many families are renting a car (or extra car) for the summer. Consider this... or place a stand-

Italy Struggles To Form New Coalition Government

By Richard Spong
Editorial Research Reports
WASHINGTON — The news from Italy since Premier Aldo Moro's center-left coalition resigned on June 26 has been sparse and uninforming, but it looks as if Signor Moro will take another crack at Western Europe's chanciest job.

Pietro Nenni's left-wing socialists agreed to continue participation in government on July 4. Giuseppe Saragat's Democratic Socialists followed suit the next day.

And on July 9 Moro's Christian Democrats agreed with the other groups on economic terms necessary to renew the old coalition.

The alternative was new elections and these would be likely only to strengthen the Communists — who lose in numbers but maintain their voting pull — the extreme right, and the far-out United Proletarian Socialists.

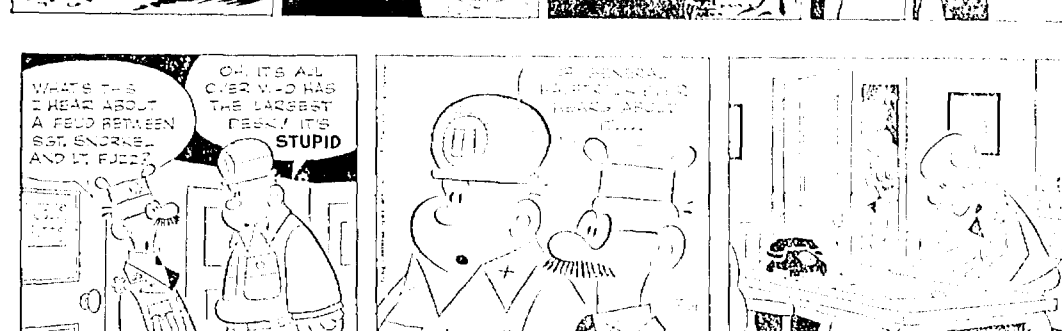

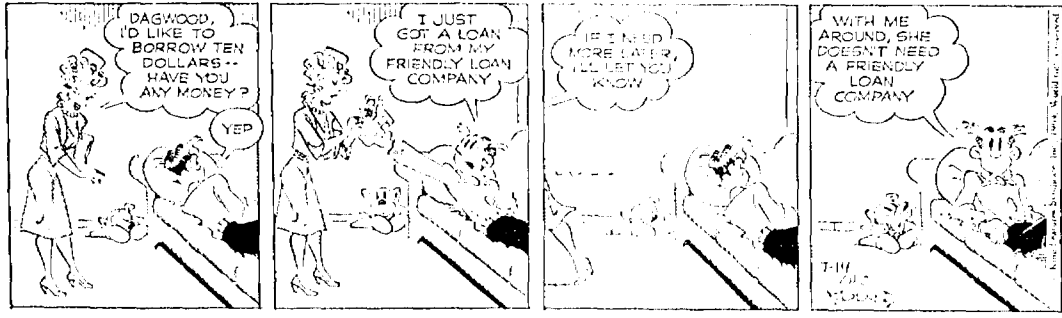

These last, a splinter from the Nenni group used to called carlist — "tankists" — because they supported the suppression of the Hungarian rebellion by Russian tanks.

They are now called Chinese — Chinese — because of their leanings in the Khrushchev-Mao ideological split.

Perhaps the crisis of the last few weeks has shaken the government parties into greater cohesion and sense of purpose.

Nevertheless, Moro will be walking a tight wire, even though his coalition holds 361 seats of the 630 in Parliament. The Christian Democrats hold 260 seats, Nenni's Socialists, 62;

County's Older Folks Grow In Numbers, Years

Special to the Record)

NEW YORK — The "over-65's" in Monroe County are gaining on the rest of the local population.

Their number is increasing at a faster rate than are other age groups, taken as a whole.

Because of their growing size and their improved financial condition, they are becoming more and more important as consumers and more influential, politically and otherwise.

The trend is a national one, according to data compiled by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. In its recent report entitled "Facts on Aging," it notes that some 1,600,000 older persons have been added to the population since 1950. The increase in their number amounts to 62 percent.

In Monroe County, as of the early part of this year, there were an estimated 4,631 men and women in the over-65 ranks, based on the national rate of increase.

This compares with the 4,361 recorded in 1960, when the census was taken. Of these, 1,976 were men and 2,385 women.

In most parts of the country there is a disparity in favor of the women. Of the 17,600,000 persons over 65 in the United States, 9,800,000 are women and only 7,800,000 are men.

The American Medical Association states that "today's children, and a good percentage of their parents, can reasonably expect to live to 80 or 90, which is considerably more than the present average."

In Monroe County, the longer life span is very much in evidence. The proportion of elders in the local population is higher than ever, 11.0 percent.

Elsewhere in the United States, the average is 9.2 percent and, in the Middle Atlantic States, 9.9 percent.

As for their economic position, although most people over 65 have much less money to spend than do younger people, they do have enough, in the aggregate, to make their presence felt in the market place.

They are retiring with bigger incomes than formerly. Since 1948, it is shown, the median income of older families, in terms of current dollars, has gone up about 25 percent.

The result is that the competition for their business is being stepped up.

Car Fire Extinguished

COLUMBIA, N. J. — Two pieces of equipment and 15 volunteer fire fighters from 130 Portland Fire Co. extinguished a car fire on Decatur St., in Columbia, N.J., yesterday at 10 a.m.

According to a fire company spokesman, it was an electrical fire inside the car. The owner of the car was not known. There were no injuries.

Miss Karen Ford

The 250-mile - long and 90-mile-wide Ellsworth Mountains are the tallest in Antarctica. Some summits are as high as 12,000 feet.

Kiwanis To Hear Miss Ford

STROUDSBURG — Karen Ford, understudy to the star of Pocono Playhouse's next attraction, "Sound of Music," will sing at the regular Kiwanis meeting Wednesday at noon at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Miss Ford played Sister Margaretta in the national tour of the show, which opened at the Mountaintop playhouse last night, starring Evelyn Wycoff.

She has played Sarah in "Guys and Dolls," Lulu in "Kismet," and the Ethel Mermaid in "Girl Crazy." A frequent performer on TV, Miss Ford has appeared on the Bilko Show, Day in Court, Mike Hammer, and Decoy.

She doubled for Doris Day in "Pillow Talk."

Short Circuit Sounds Alarm

STROUDSBURG — A short at 3:20 p.m. alerted Stroud Twp. firemen.

The fire alarm sounded about three times.

A spokesman for the fire company said a check with all the local police revealed no fire calls. Telephone company repairmen were on the scene quickly, completing repairs.

Firemen Put Out Automobile Blaze

STROUDSBURG — Firemen were called out at 7:30 p.m. Saturday when a car owned by Phillip Walters of Stroudsburg caught fire on Main St., between Sixth and Seventh Streets.

The fire was out when firemen arrived. There was no apparent damage.

Officials attributed the brief blaze to a backfire in the carburetor.

Surety Of Peace Charge Lodged

STROUDSBURG — Joseph F. Johnson, 40, of 309 Main St. Stroudsburg was jailed Sunday in Monroe County Jail on a charge of surety of the peace. Yesterday a charge of assault and battery was lodged against him by his wife. He will be arraigned at a later date before Floyd W. Kellogg, Stroudsburg justice of the peace.

WRINKLES

by Marie Davant

New York:—Chemical science has found a white substance made with quicksilver that works wonders on wrinkled, roughened face and hands. Use it one time and it is entirely possible you will see improvement next morning. In a few days dry-skin wrinkles start to vanish. Many of the small ones around the eyes and mouth have already disappeared. But that is not all! "Old-Age" (weathered) brown spots on hands and arms — brown "age" darkness on surface of face and neck fades away! Rich oils lubricate pores so blackheads can slip out without squeezing. Surface pimples and blemishes and scars, outwardly caused, dry up or become less noticeable! But don't take my word for it. Make a 6-day test without risking one penny. Just get a jar of Pen-cek's Imperial Creme at your favorite department or drug store. Use this thrilling cream for 6 days, and if you are not delighted with results, full price will be refunded. No questions asked. Pen-cek's Imperial Creme can work wonders for wrinkles, lines, brown spots and other weathered blemishes. You may obtain Imperial Creme for $2.00 plus tax from Ren & Derick, Drugs. Clip this out.
